A long time ago, a man called Mr. Lebai lived on a river bank in a village in West Sumatera.

One day, he received two party invitations-one from a villager living upstream and another one living downstream. The two parties' locations were far from each other. However, the parties were to take place exactly at the same time. Not wanting to miss both parties, he started rowing his boat downstream because he knew that the food there was very delicious.

In the middle of his journey, he stopped. Mr. Lebai remembered that the host of the upstream usually gave more food to the guests, so he turned his boat back and started to row upstream.

After rowing for several minutes, he stopped again. He remembered that the downstream host was a generous man. Mr. Lebai thought that if he got there early, he would get a delicious buffalo head. He turned back to go to the downstream village.

However, when he got there, the party in the downstream village was over. He saw people walking home, bringing bags of food. Mr. Lebai was disappointed. He quickly turned his boat again heading for the upstream village. He rowed as fast as he could. However, in the middle of the journey, he saw people walking home bringing their bags of food, too. It meant the party in the upstream was over, also.

Once upon a time, there was a little poor boy who came into a little village. He was very hungry and weak.

He knocked at every door and asked for some food, but nobody cared about him. Nobody wanted to help the little boy. Then, a generous woman helped him. She gave him shelter and a meal. When the boy wanted to leave, this old woman gave him a “lesung”, a big wooden mortar for pounding rice.

She reminded him, “Please remember, if there is a flood you must save yourself. Use this “lesung” as a boat”. The boy was happy and thanked the old woman.

The little boy continued his journey. While he was passing through the village, he saw many people gathering on the field. The boy came closer and saw a stick stuck in the ground.

People challenged each other to pull out that stick. Everybody tried, but nobody succeeded. “Can I try?” asked the little boy. The crowd laughed mockingly. The boy wanted to try his luck so he stepped forward and pulled out the stick. He could do it very easily.

Everybody was dumbfounded. Suddenly, from the hole left by the stick, water spouted out. It did not stop until it flooded the village. And no one was saved from the water except the little boy and the generous old woman who gave him shelter and a meal.

Activity 1

One hot day, a thirsty crow flew all over the fields looking for water.

For a long time, he could not find any

He felt very weak, almost lost all hope

Suddenly, he saw a water jug below the tree

He flew straight down to see if there was any water inside

Yes, he could see some water inside the jug

The crow tried to push his head into the jug

Sadly, he found that the neck of the jug was too narrow

Then he tried to push the jug to tilt for the water to flow out but the jug was too heavy

The crow thought hard for a while

Then looking around it, he saw some pebbles

He suddenly had a good idea. He started picking up the pebbles one by one, dropping each into the jug

As more and more pebbles filled the jug, the water level kept rising

Soon it was high enough for the crow to drink

His plan had worked
